By P. D.

Naturally, if the editorial today offends anyone, especially Dr. Nelson, I shall be quite willing to wring my hands and gnash my teeth. But the fact of the matter is, Dr. Nelson, like too many others, has overlooked one simple fact. Negroes are human beings, citizens of this nation, and guaranteed the same rights as are given to anyone else. How anyone can say "I believe in the teachings of Christ" on one hand, and discriminate against a fellow human being on the other, is a mystery to me. It just doesn't make sense . . .but when you stop to consider it, few things do nowadays.

I know, of course, that when my little girl goes to college she doesn't have to go to Mississippi College, and I don't think she will. Naturally, choice is up to her, but I am one of those misguided souls who holds that education should be concerned with opening the mind instead of closing it. Education should, in my misguided opinion, help a person to overcome prejudices, bigotry, and intolerance. Of course, I know the question of the Professional Southerner. "Do you want your daughter to marry a nigger?" Nope, I do not. And at the same time there are many whites I don't want her to marry, most notable of which are the Professional Southerners.

There was some talk of the editorial last week being unfair to Mississippi Southern College. That was the one about Wide-Awake, Mississippi. In the first place, I didn't even mention the name of a school, so it would seem that someone feels a little guilty of something. Of course, I don't know what. Frankly, MSC has growing pains of a sort, but they haven't been too well guided, it seems. I understand last fall some 250 to 300 students were turned down because of the lack of dormitory facilities. The teacher load is about twice the normal. Class rooms are limited. But, by golly, we can see the football games. Reminds me of a person who came up on the "other side of the tracks", made good, and can't help but show off a little. I rather suspect that my remarks will be taken as opposition to Mississippi Southern College. Nothing could be further from the truth. The simple fact is I hate to see waste of any kind, and all

Mr. John Milton was a poet with an imagination of gigantic magnitude. PARADISE LOST was written in the dry fashion of Milton's day, but the epic poem is far from being dry when one considers the imaginative qualities therein.

Mr. Milton takes up a few eons before the time the Bible began its record, and paints some characters which we find with us right here in Mississippi now. Indeed, their works show mightly today!

PARADISE LOST comes in twelve books, the first dealing with the rebellion in Heaven, and finally the boot God found necessary to give the Angels who questioned His way of running things.

Chief rival of God was an angel named Satan. He was the first to go. After an undetermined time on the firey coals of hell, Satan and his cohorts regained their senses and held a pow-pow to determine policy. They formed a corporation then and there. Mr. Moloch, the strongest and fiercest spirit that fought in heaven, declared himself for open war.

Opposing him was Mr. Belial, who seemed not to care for further battle. He declared the towers of Heaven to be filled with armed watch. He advised just waiting for a spell and see what happened.

Then came Mr. Mammon, whom we consider the most intelligent and sneakiest of Satan's league. He said, in effect, disguise to his advantage. Sometime he calls himself Pride, Conquest, Opportunity, Intelligence, Reason and many other flattering names are his.

He has stood with the victor in every single war man has known. Mr. Mammon stood on the first slave ship to set sail from America. He said to those on board, "This is good. You'll be rich."

He was right beside the first man ever to purchase a slave. He stands in too many places today to mention.

Mr. Mammon has crept into many churches. He sits with the pastor often. He devised the dollar sign you find in religion. But not once has he called it what it really is. Always he has used another name; indeed, he is even able to quote the scripture to justify his means.

Reason, Common Sense, Logic, social acceptence, are some of the disguises he uses today with pastors. They have a small voice somewhere within crying that their acts are not reasonable, logical, nor anything resembling common sense. Mr. Mammon drowns out such voices with soothing words of "what the congregation wants" of its pastor. And all is well with the church. Harmony is so peaceful, he advises. The preachers will buy that item anytime.

Mr. Mammon sits peacefully and recalls the days of the Crusades. He did well in those times too.

"In hoc singo vinces," he recalls having heard the priests tell the Crusaders

Carrico, Mullin, And Thompson Honored At United Gas Dinner

R. T. Carrico, L. P. Mullin, Sr., and E. W. Thompson, veteran employees of United Gas from the Petal area, were among those honored at the firm's annual Service Award Dinner held at Shreveport, headquarters of the company, on Monday night, April 23. The dinner was attended by employees and members of their families from the Gulf South area, which is comprised of part of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, southern Alabama and Northwestern Florida.

Each of the employees attending has 25 years or more of service with the company. Those who reach their twenty-fifth year of employment by June 30, 1956, were presented with a gold service insignia and watches. New emblems also were given to employees who this year passed another five years of service with the company.

The principal address at the dinner was made by N. C. McGowen, chairman of the board and president of United Gas Corporation, and himself a 42-year employee. Mr. McGowen praised the long service and loyalty of the honor guests.

Ed Parkes, executive vice-president of United Gas Corporation and president of United Gas Pipe Line Company and Union Producing Company, presided at the dinner. He is a 28-year employee.

Junior Wesleyan Guild Formed At Petal Methodist

The Junior Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church, Petal, Mississippi, held its organizational meeting Tuesday night, April 17, at the church. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. R. L. Frazier, assisted by Rev. J. P. Payne, pastor. The following officers were elected to serve a two year term:

President, Mrs. Joyce Frazier; Vice-President, Mrs. Bobbie Smith; Treasurer, Mrs. Mary Herrington; Secretary of Promotion, Mrs. Janice Meeks; Reporter, Mrs. Annie Laurie Jordan; Spiritual Life Secretary, Mrs. Bernice Myers; Missionary Education Secretary, Mrs. Betty Loper; Social Relations Secretary, Mrs. Bennie Upton; Secretary of Literature, Mrs. Sarah Brewer; Secretary of Status of Women, Mrs. Joan James.

It was decided that the Guild would meet the first Thursday night in each month, with the next meeting being held in the home of Mrs. Annie Laurie Jordan, with Mrs. Betty Loper as co-hostess.

Following the nominations and election of officers, delicious refreshments were served the group by the hostesses, Mrs Mark Herrington, Mrs. Jessie Smith, and Mrs. R. L. Frazier.

There was some talk of the editorial last week being unfair to Mississippi Southern College. That was the one about Wide-Awake, Mississippi. In the first place, I didn't even mention the name of a school, so it would seem that someone feels a little guilty of something. Of course, I don't know what. Frankly, MSC has growing pains of a sort, but they haven't been too well guided, it seems. I understand last fall some 250 to 300 students were turned down because of the lack of dormitory facilities. The teacher load is about twice the normal. Class rooms are limited. But, by golly, we can see the football games. Reminds me of a person who came up on the "other side of the tracks", made good, and can't help but show off a little. I rather suspect that my remarks will be taken as opposition to Mississippi Southern College. Nothing could be further from the truth. The simple fact is I hate to see waste of any kind, and all things considered, 35,000 football seats at this time is waste in anybody's book.

Had the pleasure last Saturday of seeing agin Farmer Jim Neal, popular radio and television personality of Jackson. Jim and I grew up more or less together in Marion County, Mississippi. His television show is Saturday afternoon over WJTV and he's on WSLI radio each morning at 5:45 to 8:00. He's quite a fellow, and I'm delight at his success in his chosen field.

It is certainly the privilege of a newspaper to do what it feels is best for those it serves. (Most of 'em are the stockholders.) But I am somewhat amused by some of the journalism coming from the South today. One newspaper has made a great issue over the fact that in the North they have racial problems, too. They have sent reporters up to check on the North, and have pointed out to their readers all the faults of northern states. I wish I could see it, but I don't. Why go to the trouble of calling the North one too? Why not let's clean up our own backyard, then we would be in a little better position to point out the mess in the backyards of the Yankees. It little matters what the northern press calls us here in the South. We know we have problems. Reminds me of two small boys calling each other names. One boy says, "You're a double-barrel, 14 karat, 21 jewel so-and-so." The other boy is unable to top this, so he says, "Yeah, and you're one, too." Since growing up I have found it advantageous to do a little self-examination when called a name. Generally, I have found the accuser to be right. Such an attitude would work to our advantage on a larger scale, if we but had the guts to face facts.

Southern colleges may be missing an opportunity by not offering a course in musical criticism at the present time. I have reference to the present attack on "Rock and Roll" music by the citizens council of north Alabama. The Honorable Asa Carter and his crew have declared open war on such music as being "nigger music." They have, I understand, threatened to boycott any place which allows such recordings to placed on their juke boxes. For two weeks now I've been thinking about it, and have been unable to understand how "Rock and Roll" is a threat to our fine southern way of life. True, I don't like the stuff, but there are millions who do. Oh, well, I suppose Asa Carter, Robert Patterson, Judge Brady, and Herman Talmadge are glorious saviors in disguise, and I'm too stupid to see it. I'll just settle for a Strauss waltz and be safe. Like a man I know once said, "Come hail or snow, let's keep the status quo."

Numerous times I have been asked the question, "Just exactly what is your position on this race question?" Frankly, I've tried over a year now to make that clear. I have no exact position

Buddy Poppy Sale Slated For Saturday

According to information just released by Chairman Arthur Lee, East Forrest Memorial Post No. 6040, V. F. W., and its Ladies Auxiliary, will stage their annual Buddy Poppy Sale on Saturday, April 28.

A meeting of the Chairmen from both oragnizations and their top workers was scheduled for the middle of the week to complete detailed plans for the campaign.

In commenting on the forthcoming sale, Chairman Lee said, " Ihope that by now the public is cognizant of the great works made possible through the small contributions of many. Asid from the greater portion of every donation which stays in the community to aid the portion of every donation which stays in the community to aid the unfortunate, the remaining is divided three ways; to pay the patients in VA hospitals throughout the country who make the poppies; to support the National Rehabilitation Service of our organization; and, to finance in a large measure the operations of V. F. W. National Home for widows and orphans of servicemen at Eaton Rapids, Mich. If the profits from the Buddy Poppy sale did nothing more than help to maintain this Home, it would still be worth all the work and effort required to put on the sale.

"When each of you buy a Buddy Poppy on Saturday the Post and Auxiliary is asking that you wear it — and rightly so. Wear it proudly for what it represents—the memory of those who have paid the supreme sacrifice that our way of American life might be preserved. Wear it proudly for what it does today—Honors the dead by helping the living! And give as generously as you can, for it will make a big difference if we can get more quarters than dimes."

Clint Davis Elected MSC Cheerleader

Eight cheerleaders were elected by Mississippi Southern College students in campus—wide balloting held this week. They will serve during the 1956-'57 school year.

Clint Davis of Petal won one of the coveted posts.

Then came Mr. Mammon, whom we consider the most intelligent and sneakiest of Satan's league. He said, in effect, "Well, boys, we've got ourselves a problem. But this looks like a right good real estate development here where we are. I say, gentlemen, there's gold in these here hills. Let's develop what we've got."

Of course, you know the rest of the story from the old Testament, the fact that Satan disguised as a snake messed up Mrs. Eve and Mr. Adam.

But back to Mr. Mammon, the brainey one of the hellish league. Mr. Mammon did not come into his own until the Phoenicians invented and began using money. Since that time he has matters here on earth under control!

Mr. Mammon has made use of the what it really is. Always he has used another name; indeed, he is even able to quote the scripture to justify his means.

"there's a better sign in which to conquer today," says Mr. Mammon to himself. "They all like it . . . every living person. I'm in business to stay . . . and I will continue to make the most of the new sign in which I conquer . . ."

"What mortal," he asks, "can resist that sign?" He moves on to another person, business, home, or . . . church!

"Liberal" Is An Ugly Word - -

A College Of Southern Arts Is Next

The pure White Citizens Councils of Mississippi sent out the following under the title of "Conflicting Views On Segregation." It is an exchange of letters between Dr. D. M. Nelson, President of Mississippi College, Clinton, Mississippi, and a former student, simply designated as "Tom."

This "Tom" character is probably the sort of fellow who would refuse to hold Dr. Nelson's magnolia "while he whupped his slave," so, naturally, his reasoning is to be discounted.

May 18, 1954

Dr. D. M. Nelson
President of Mississippi College
Clinton, Mississippi

My dear Dr. Nelson:

You will recall me as a member of the class of 1917 and a former resident of New Haven, Connecticut. I retired last June and am now living near Poplarville, Mississippi. If at any time I can be of service to Mississippi College, I would be happy to have you call on me.

The purpose of this letter is to mention the "White Supremacy" now before the people of the South. Insofar as this issue applies to education in general, and Mississippi College in particular, I feel sure in your heart you will agree with me that there should be no racial differences. In theory I can see no reason why negroes are not admitted to Mississippi College on the same condition as any other race. I suspect privately in your sincere thinking you agree with this last statement.

Yet, we know full well that in practice there is feeling in our State against such equality. Some day this issue is going to be forced to where concessions will have to be made, at least in publicly supported institutions. In the name of Christianity, a great institution like Mississippi College should take a lead and not find herself trailing in public thinking and acting. I covet for Mississippi College the honor of being a leader in this field. If Mississippi College would open her doors to negroes, at least to some extent, she would reach a high level of leadership in Christian education. So far as I am personally concerned, I would like to see any person without regard for color or sex admitted if other qualifications are met. If it is felt that the Baptist people of our State will not go all the way with me, then admit ministerial students. If that it too much, then admit married ministerial students who would live off the campus.

The Methodist and Baptist people are the leaders in Mississippi. Perhaps you could approach the proper authority at Millsaps College and see it they woulp take common action. In some way or other the leaders of Christian education should face this issue. As stated above I would like to see it done without reservation, but I would make concessions for the present in order to keep Christian leadership ahead of the Supreme Court and the politicans.

Sincerely yours,
/s/ Tom

Office of The President

May 28, 1954

Dear Tom:

I have read your letter with interest and find myself in total disagreement with the sentiment expressed. At first I was slightly shocked to learn that one born, reared and educated in Mississippi should wander so far away in his thinking from the traditions and ideals and way of life of the land of his nativity. Then I recalled that you had spent twenty-five or thirty years in New England as teacher and supervisory officer in the public schools of that section. The manner of life and thought of the people of that area have always been sharply different from those of this fair section.

You will recall, I am sure, that negro slavery in this country did not originate in the South but in New England. After a fair trial by our Yankee cousins, due to climatic conditions, African slavery proved to be a finan-

Western Auto Celebrating Anniversary

Mitchell Curry, owner of the Petal Western Auto Associate Store, has announced plans for the celebration of their first year in business here.

The local store will tie in with the 47th anniversary sale of the Western Auto Company, underway at the present time.

"We will give away a Wizard vacuum cleaner or a Wizard 18 inch lawn mower during our sale", stated Mr. Curry.

"We remind you, there is nothing to buy; just come in and register for the prizes, to be given away on Saturday, May 5th.

"It has been our pleasure to serve the people of this area for the past year," Curry said, "and we hope to be of service to this area for many, many years to come."

Gen. Hershey Commencement Speaker, MSC

An address by General Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service, will feature the spring commencement program at Mississippi Southern College on Sunday, May 27.

In addition to announce the commencement speaker, President William D. McCain of Southern today made public plans for the annual graduation program.

The graduation exercises will get underway in the football stadium at 5 p.m. with a band concert. Candidates for degrees will begin entering the stadium at 5:45 and the program, featuring General Hershey will begin immediately.

Bishop Marvin L. Franklin of Jackson will deliver the baccalaureate sermon in the college auditorium at 11 a.m. on the same date.

Play Key Roles In State FHA Meet

CHARLENE STEWART of Petal, right, a senior at East Forrest High School, and Miss Kathlyn Funk of Jackson, assistant state supervisor of homemaking education, will have major roles in the annual state convention of Mississippi members of Future Homemakers of America, to be held at Mississippi Southern College May 31-June 2. Miss Stewart, as state FHA president, will preside over the three-day session while Miss Funk, state FHA advisor, is in charge of arranging the program that will attract more than 700 delegates, representing 14,017 members of 311 high school chapters. All delegates and their teachers attending the convention will be housed on the Southern campus.

Editorial Comment

In Our Opinion, It Amounts To This . . .

cial failure and the original owners began to bargain off their unprofitable holdings to the plantation owners of the South. With the money received from their shrewd trading they built stately mansions along the same shores where slave ships had been landing for a century. Many of these still remain as silent witnesses to the truthfulness of the statement that it does make a difference "whose ox is gored."

You will remember also, Tom, how well these Africans were adapted to the climate and way of life of the South and how prosperity followed and how happy, cordial and tender was the relationship that grew up between the benevolent masters and their slaves, the Stowes, the Garrisons and the Philippses to the contrary notwithstanding. Success where there had been failure was a strong provocation to action in reverse from the section whence the traffic had originated. The moral issue connected with human slavery was raised quite tardily and exploited. When it was pointed out that the Constitution recognized slaves as property, the response was immediate and dramatic: "To hell with the Constitution." Agitation continued unabated resulting in the War Between the States and the freeing of the slaves and the pauperizing of the once prosperous South. While in this helpless condition and under control of the carpetbaggers and the freedmen, the 14th and 15th amendments were passed as war measures to further humiliate a brave and proud people. To add to the loss of everything but honor and the right as the Southerners saw it, the victors set about to place upon the prostrate section a system of economic slavery more destructive, devastating and degrading than was the physical slavery which they professed so to abhor. The irony of this movement was that it was more severe upon the freedmen than upon the native whites.

Now as the South is beginning to prosper again and coming to be recognized as a part of the Union and proceeding with programs designed to enrich the life of all of its people, white and colored alike, we witness the sorry spectacle of a movement born out of the same wicked purpose, yet with a far more deadly design and devastating effect, to wit, to mongrelize the two dominant races of the South. The attempt is to do what the good Lord in His infinite wisdom did not do. He made the people into races, with racial characteristics, with inherent likes and dislikes, similarities and dissimilarities, and it would be as fallacious for mere man to try to improve upon the work of the Lord as it proved to be in his attempt to build a tower to heaven. A long life of study of people of different races, of different stations, of different strata, leads to the inevitable conclusion that there is something in lineage, in ancestry, in blood. Just as there are people with varying talents, there are inherently superior and inferior people. Shakespeare's dictum must continue to go unchallenged: "You to carry on correspondence indefinitely. There are a few points I wish to cover in the nature of explanations. This letter does not require an answer unless you have some special point you wish to make or review.

Your letter gave the impression that you might have felt that I commented unfavorably on the quality of your Christian views. I certainly never meant to make such an impression and am most sorry if I phrased a statement which would make one think I made an improper personal remark.

No one has made any reference to my long residence outside of Mississippi. I feared someone might brush aside my views with the comment that I picked up those ideas outside of the state. When I was a student at Mississippi College—prior to 1917—many times I walked over to Dickey Institute and talked with the people there. My views then were substantially the same as they are now. The promotion of the Missionary Work in the Baptist Church and the teaching at Mississippi College, then, seemed to be out of line with our practice of excluding negroes from our Colleges and churches. There are many well informed people in Mississippi today who have never resided outside the state and who share these opinions with me. So far as I am concerned this idea carries the label, "Made In Mississippi."

Mississippi College has rendered a valuable service to the white race, and indirectly to all races, during the years of her life. I feel that her contribution would have been of a still higher order had this privilege been extended to all humanity without regard for color and race. It is even more urgent that the future be dedicated to the direct service to all mankind without regard for color and race. It seems very probable that in the near future our state institutions of higher education are going to be compelled by law to admit negroes. If this occurs, Mississippi College will be standing out as a poor exception or be compelled to enter via the back door. It would be far better for Mississippi College to be a leader, especially in a humanitarian program of this kind. Mississippi College cannot afford to be on the wrong side of a moral question. I gravely fear the sentiment expressed in your letter is not going to stand the test of time.

It is quite possible that my viewpoint is a minority one at present, although I believe there are for more people holding it than is generally supposed. If that is the case I predict within a few years a rising tide of public sentiment will demand a review of the position. It is perhaps now later than we think.

I represent no one. The above are my personal views. I express them because they seem to be the accumulated experience of mankind. They are not original with me. I have often been mistaken in the past. It is possible I am in error here.

Sincerely yours,

fulfill. Like individuals, some races have five talents, some three, some one, each according to its several ability. It is the responsibility of each race to find its place and under God to work out its manifest destiny. The negro race, though one of the oldest, has never built a worthy civilization. Their talent seems to lie in another direction.

Our forefathers who crossed an unknown ocean and cleared an unbroken forest and displaced the primitive people found here were not seeking a place for the amalgamation of the white and black races. Rather were they interested in building an asylum where the oppressed could come and live their own lives in peace under God and worship Him according to the dictates of conscience. However dimly may have been the vision they remained steadfast in their purpose and marched steadily toward their worthy goal. The part our great country has played in the tremendous events of the last forty years is familiar to all who read and think. Through her wealth of material resources and her moral and spiritual strength, she has retarded the enslavement of mankind and prevented the destruction of existing civilizations. This she has done without any desire for power or the hope of reward. She has been traveling toward her fore-or-dained destiny.

As you know, Tom, the tendency is toward mass movements with little thought for the individual. The "One World" idea with a one-world government is a popular thought today. This is a beautiful dream but void of any possibility of reality. Racial differences and affinities and antagonism cannot be ignored. Any proposition to efface national and racial borders is not the conclusion of sound reason and good judgment.

Then there are also increasing numbers that would merge all religious denominations into one corpulent body. This would not deepen conviction and belief nor make for spiritual health and strength but would rather tend to weakness and solvenness and a decrease in initiative and interest. To take the position that positive religious belief is a matter of little consequence, that one creed or one denomination is as good as another does not favor a militant and aggressive Christianity, but rather encourages a lazy indifference to the Truth.

The Mississippi River better fulfills its mission when kept within its banks. To destroy its levees would broaden its waters but without control. The most fruitful Christian is the one who believes something definite and is willing to contend earnestly for it. The best world citizen also is the one whose patriotism has been rooted first in the soil of his own state and community. Some water, to be sure, is found scattered over the landed areas of the earth, but the great body of it is contained in the rivers, and seas, and oceans. Some grass is found on the mountain side, but most of it is on the plains. Likewise there are bits of truth around the fringes and at the extremities of many issues, but the great mass of it is found in the golden means. It pays to operate where the bulk of the truth lies.

Much is being said currently about giving the legislature the authority to abolish the public school system. Actually, the Supreme Court did that in its recent decision. The governor and legislature are asking only for permission to remove the debris in order to start all over again. These elected officials are citizens, too, and are as much interested in the welfare of Mississippi as any one else. If we cannot trust our elected officers, then representative government which has contributed so righly to our national greatness has gone with the wind and may the Lord have mercy upon us. Certainly the legislature will not abolish the public schools unless it becomes the alternative with the integration of the white and Negro races. There are some things dearer than life itself. Otherwise our soldiers and sailors and airmen in our generation have died in vain.

Until your September letter, Tom, I had strongly felt that your sojourn in New England, where a similar problem faced our Yankee cousins centuries ago and which they solved by passing it on to our section for value received, had influenced your views and that a few years of fine living in the land of your nativity might improve your thinking on this all-important matter. While recent events have dimmed that hope, still we have not despaired altogether; for we are reminded by another that "As long as the lamp holds out to burn, The vilest sinner may return."

As ever your friend,
D. M. Nelson, President

Of course, you can readily see the logic and reason of the position taken by Dr. Nelson, because any time a Negro entered a white college the sun would refuse to shine. This "Nigger lovin' Tom" should realize that.

There seems to be an idea started somewhere that education should open minds, not close them. Well, we'd say it all depends. And in these parts it depends on how prejudiced a person happens to be. Why, everyone knows that we in Mississippi are without prejudice. Anyone worthy of his magnolia heritage knows that the whole fault lies with them "damnyankees."

Glory to God on high, the Citizens Councils second highest, and Mississippi College which ranks right near the top!

on any question. I try to keep an open mind and see things as they actually exist, not as I would want them to be. My views are flexible. I am not saying that I am without a backbone or the ability to make up my mind; rather, I am saying that nothing is permanent and situations change from day to day. Therefore, that which was right and good or just yesterday may well be wrong or bad or unjust tomorrow. However, I do hold to a few basic principles or ideas or ideals, if you prefer.

They are in the name of common sense, nothing more or less, to my way of thinking. For example, I do not believe that a nation can exist when one group has taken for itself all the rights and privileges guaranteed by the Constitution, and has denied the same rights and privileges to another group of citizens.

I hold that integration of schools has become a secondary matter, in view of the many acts Southern legislative groups have taken toward denying and/or imposing the will of the whites on the Negro.

I hold that basic freedoms are at stake in this question. That being true, they are too precious to lose over a secondary question.

I hold that an attitude of tolerance and patience is of the utmost importance to all persons, white and black.

I hold that the future of my child is being moulded at this very moment. I want her and her children to have at least the same rights and privileges that I have had, if not better.

I hold that each man in this nation is responsible to every other man, not as his keeper, but as his brother; each trying to understand the views of the other, and in so doing gain a degree of tolerance necessary for the conduct of a continuance of "One Nation, Under God."

I hold that the Negro, though his skin be black, is a human being and as such has the same emotions, instincts, and hopes and joy and sorrow as anyone else.

In short, I hold that the American Way is of more importance than the Southern Way.

Oh, yes, by the way, what ever happened to the Forrest County Citizens Council?

The current "Do-It-Yourself" craze has taken a new turn. A New Yorker died the other day and preached his own funeral, via a tape recorder. First thing you know there'll be a new union to crop up.

I read not long ago about a case in which 5 typewriters were stolen and later found in a cemetery. There was no clue, so stated the story. Suggestion: Ever hear of a ghost writer?

Now as the South is beginning to prosper again and coming to be recognized as a part of the Union and proceeding with programs designed to enrich the life of all of its people, white and colored alike, we witness the sorry spectacle of a movement born out of the same wicked purpose, yet with a far more deadly design and devastating effect, to wit, to mongrelize the two dominant races of the South. The attempt is to do what the good Lord in His infinite wisdom did not do. He made the people into races, with racial characteristics, with inherent likes and dislikes, similarities and dissimilarities, and it would be as fallacious for mere man to try to improve upon the work of the Lord as it proved to be in his attempt to build a tower to heaven. A long life of study of people of different races, of different stations, of different strata, leads to the inevitable conclusion that there is something in lineage, in ancestry, in blood. Just as there are people with varying talents, there are inherently superior and inferior people. Shakespeare's dictum must continue to go unchallenged: "You cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear." Close proximity of white and negro children in the schoolroom would ultimately lead to intermarriage and intermarriage of the two races would lead to racial disaster. For according to Pope, even:

> "Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
> As to be hated needs but to be seen:
> Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
> We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

Until now the High Court has favored the Southern position. Those who have sat upon its Bench for a century and a half have been profound, constitutional lawyers, passing upon issues that came before them in the light of precedent and according to the organic law of the land. The recent decision has ignored precedent and law and pushed aside all previous pronouncements on this great issue and based its findings upon the flimsy dictum of "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal." We have reached a strange place in our history when social theories are substituted for law and long established precedent. Hereafter is it to be that learned men in the social studies will be sought for the Supreme Court instead of learned men of the law?

No, Tom, Mississippi College will not throw open its doors to negro students as long as the present president is permitted to direct its affairs. It shall be our purpose to protect the fair sons and daughters of the purest strain of the Caucasian race and save them the humiliation of close social contact with a race so different in origin, tradition, ideals and aspirations and in every other conceivable way.

We take this position for the good of the negroes as well as of the whites. They have many fine qualities and racial characteristics that should be preserved and developed without uneasiness or embarrassment. In class with young men and young women whom they would accept as superior the negro students would be repressed and ill at ease and frustrated. Herein might be applied the recent doctrine of the "separate but inherently unequal" with full force and effect.

We are dealing with an age-old problem, Tom, and it cannot be solved by maudlin sentimentality or fuzzy thinking or even the fiat of a high court. The South is far on the way toward solving this distressing problem if only let alone by outsiders who are entirely innocent of much that is involved.

We rejoice, Tom, that you have come back to beautiful, glorious Mississippi to spend the evening time of a long, rich and full life. We only wish that we had room for the millions of good people north of the Mason and Dixon line so that they might come and enjoy with us the warmth of our sunshine, the beauty of our landscapes, and feel the pulsebeats and handclasps of a great people who love their country and worship fervently the living God.

Abidingly your friend,
D. M. Nelson, President

Dr. D. M. Nelson
President, Mississippi College
Clinton, Mississippi
My dear Dr. Nelson:

I recenved your letter dated 6 July in answer to my letter dated 25 June. It was kind of you to take time to write me. I do not wish compelled by law to admit negroes. If this occurs, Mississippi College will be standing out as a poor exception or be compelled to enter via the back door. It would be far better for Mississippi College to be a leader, especially in a humanitarian program of this kind. Mississippi College cannot afford to be on the wrong side of a moral question. I gravely fear the sentiment expressed in your letter is not going to stand the test of time.

It is quite possible that my viewpoint is a minority one at present, although I believe there are for more people holding it than is generally supposed. If that is the case I predict within a few years a rising tide of public sentiment will demand a review of the position. It is perhaps now later than we think.

I represent no one. The above are my personal views. I express them because they seem to be the accumulated experience of mankind. They are not original with me. I have often been mistaken in the past. It is possible I am in error here.

Sincerely yours,
/s/ Tom

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE
Founded 1826
Clinton, Mississippi
Office of The President

December 13, 1954

Dear Tom:

Your letter of September 9 was duly received and at the time only casually read. It came during the opening of college which is a very busy period, as you well know. Then, too, the enrolment in Mississippi College continues to rise, requiring much thought and planning to meet the demands made upon us. Lately I have re-read your letter more carefully and now feel that it deserves an answer, even though you said none was expected.

Rest assured, Tom, that your letters have given no personal offense, nor do I question the sincerity of your convictions and belief on an ancient and stubborn problem. We are fortunate that we live in a country where differences of opinion can be held and expressed on controversial issues that arise. I am in agreement with the great Frenchman who said in substance, "I do not agree with a thing you say, but I would contend to the death for you to say it." And on the age-old question of what is the proper relationship between the white and Negro races in this country, we are as far apart as the poles of the earth in our basic philosophy.

It is being argued with a good deal of heat at present that not to admit Negroes to white schools is violative of the spirit of the Declaration of Independence and the Fundamental Law of the Land. Since when did this become so? The authors and framers of these great documents by word and deed were squarely on the other side of the question. Also, the profound lawyers and jurists that have adorned the bench of the highest court in the land up until the recent decision were squarely and unequivocally on the other side of the issue.

It is being argued also with even greater heat that it is unchristian to segregate the white and Negro races. It is contended that the races should be permitted to mix freely in public and private. Again we demur and call for the chapter and the verse of the Bible. The whole tenor of the Scriptures is against mixed marriages and the pollution of the blood of distinct and separate races. The upward climb of mankind has been made through the thought and labors of the dominant races in the various areas of the world. History is not so much the record of the events of nations as a whole as it is the chronicle of the contributed civilizations of the superior races. O, you say there is no superior race or person! Then again you deny the whole tenor of the Scriptures and throw into the wastebasket the parable of the talents whose significant truth is verified daily before our eyes. Communism, as you well know, is based upon Karl Marx's doctrine of internationalism and the classless society and the obliteration of all national and racial distinctions and the final amalgamation of all races. The early Christians in their zeal, actuated by a noble sentiment, as you will remember, tried an experiment of having everything in common and it would not work, even though they were of the same mind and purpose.

It is our abiding conviction thatevery race, like every individual, has a distinct mission to militant and aggressive Christianity, but rather encourages a lazy indifference to the Truth.

The Mississippi River better fulfills its mission when kept within its banks. To destroy its levees would broaden its waters but without control. The most fruitful Christian is the one who believes something definite and is willing to contend earnestly for it. The best world citizen also is the one whose patriotism has been rooted first in the soil of his own state and community. Some water, to be sure, is found scattered over the landed areas of the earth, but the great body of it is contained in the rivers, and seas, and oceans. Some grass

BURRELL C. YOUNG, above, who heads the Cancer Drive in the East Forrest area, along with Claude Pittman, County Chairman of the American Cancer Society, and P. H. Jordan, chairman of the current cancer drive for the county, begs of you to read the important message on this page. Knowing the seven danger signs may save a life, they point out. Be alert to cancer, it is not a respecter of persons.

A Message To The People Of The East Forrest Area:

Some Points To Keep In Mind:

Last year 2,216 Mississippians lost their lives from cancer.

Cancer is the number two killer of men, women and children. If the present rate continues, 23,000,000 Americans now living will die of cancer.

Cancer strikes 1 out of every five Americans.

More children from three to fifteen years of age die of cancer than from any other disease.

New Chemical Construction Spending Reaches $2.3 Billion, Survey Shows

Washington, D.C., April 25—An estimated $1.6 billion will be spent on new chemical construction through 1956 and 1957, according to a survey made public here today by General J. E. Hull, U.S.A. Ret., president, Manufacturing Chemists' Association. The MCA survey also disclosed that privately financed chemical construction projects completed during 1955 totaled $772 million.

The survey covered 599 projects, 269 of which were completed during 1955. The additional 246 projects now under construction will cost an estimated $1.1 billion. The curvey also reported 84 projects definitely committed which will cost an estimated $507 million.

The total of projects completed in 1955, plus those under confor completion within the next two years, reaches $2.3 billion.

In commenting on the survey, General Hull said:

"The continued high rate of construction of new facilities to produce chemicals is another example of our country's economic good health and industry's faith in the future. In addition to making more products of chemistry available to more people, it is particularly significant that this construction is strengthening the local economy in 356 communities in 43 states from coast to coast.

"It meas jobs, paychecks, tax revenues, and adequate capacity to meet the growing demand for products upon which we all depend, such as plastics, medicines, man-made fibers and the hundreds of industrial chemicals necessary to the production of nearly all consumer goods.

"The projects in this survey are all financed by private funds, either from former earnings of the companies themselves or invested by the American public. They are also the logical outgrowth of the chemical industry's intensive research. These new plants are all being built to use results of this research to supply new products, improved products, or existing products at lower cost."

General Hull pointed out that last year 426 new chemicals and chemical products were introduced, bringing to over 8,000 the number of chemical products available today.

Geographical Distribution

The MCA survey reported construction projects in 43 of the 48 states. All geographical areas are represented with the South and Southwest, Far West, and Middle West showing the greatest expansion.

On an individual state basis, Texas, currently the third ranking chemical producing state, led the way in new chemical construction with 66 projects costing an estimated $414.8 million completed, under way or definitely scheduled. California was second with 49 projects valuel at an estimated $185.8 million. Ohio, with 38 construction projects amounting to $152.6 million, was third.

Louisiana, West Virginia and Georgia showed chemical investments of more than $100 million each.

Florida, a comparatively recent arrival in major chemical manufacturing, continued to grow with a 1955 estimated investment of $93.2 million in 15 projects, the survey showed.

Among the traditional leaders in chemical production, Illinois added 32 projects valued at an estimated $90.5 million. Tennessee showed a sizable investment of an estimated $88.5 million in 15 new chemical plants or plant expansions.

New Jersey, ranked first in chemical manufacture, showed 53 projects, costing $81.6 million, 27 of which were completed in 1955.

Products Classifications

Consolidation of completed, under construction or planned figures shows that in 1955 the industry made its heaviest investment, $633 million, in heavy and fine organic chemicals. The second largest investment, $481 million, was in the field of inorganic chemicals. The third largest, $433 million, was for fertilizer chemicals.

The fourth largest, $288 million, was for plastics and resins. Added facilities for the production of man-made textile fibers accounted for $155 million. New construction and expansion of synethetic rubber facilities brought an investment estimated at $117 million.

The industry invested an estimated $154.7 million for chemical production of metals and aloys. More than $68.8 million is being spent for new research facilities Other chemical construction totaled $46.8 million.

Publicly Financed Construction

Not included in the MCA survey is a reported $3.3 billion of government-financed chemical construction under way or completed in the calendar year 1955, most of it under contract with chemical companies. This construction includes seven expansions and two new chemical plants for the Atomic Energy Commission as well as various other government chemical installations.

How to Plan a Career in Chemistry

Opportunities unlimited exist in Chemicals, America's fastest growing basic industry.

With June — and commencement — not far off, the chemical manufacturers of America invite students of all ages to consider: the rewards offered to the chemical industry career man . . . and the importance of early planning in achieving success in this field.

First, compare. The chemical industry is a supplier to all basic industries in America! . . . It has grown five times in size over the past 25 years — and is expected to quadruple in size over the next twenty years. Average weekly earnings in the chemical industry have stayed ahead of the cost of living, and have consistently exceeded wages as compared with the average for all industry. Due to rapid growth, the chemical industry has spread to all regions of the country . . . you work where you please! It has one of the best safety records in industry. Finally, the chemical industry invests more in research than any other field (over 350 million dollars last year). New Products . . . new processes . . . new improvements insure continued growth.

Then, decide . . . and plan now. A recent survey covering companies which account for 80% of America's chemical production, has indicated that in this highly technical industry, the man with technical training is needed at the top. Fully 57% of all top management men have technical or scientific degrees. Another 17% of these executives have degrees in other fields. Prepare for your career in chemistry today . . . write for your free copy of "FRONTIERSMAN OF THE FUTURE" Department A, Manufacturing Chemists' Association, Washington 6, D. C.

Home Agent's Notes

Home Demonstration Agent

By Elsie H. Butler

Have you been seeing some little insects flying around as you open the closet door? Or elsewhere about the house? Even if you haven't seen them yet, better not take any chances on moth damages to clothes, blankets and such.

Moths eat animal materials as wool, hair, fur, feathers, A wide variety of products made from one or a combination of the materials are in our homes.

As soon as the weather turns warm, it's time to give your winter clothes and bed clothes a good spraying. A 5% DDT oil spray gives good control of clothes moths.

Take the clothes from the closet before you spray, so you can treat the walls thoroughly. Spray the entire surface of all closet walls, particularly around the baseboards and edge of the floor. Spray again in 3 months.

DDT solutions can be sprayed lightly on clothes without injuring any fabrics that can be dry cleaned. Too much of the DDT may leave a white powder on dark clothes, but it can be removed by brushing or dry cleaning.

Caraway Seed Fresn Beets

Here's a recipe you might like to try with the fresh beets from your spring garden or those from the market, if you don't have a garden:

2 cups sliced fresh beets (cooked)

2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice.

½ teaspoon salt

1/16 teaspoon ground black pepper.

½ to ¾ teaspoons whole caraway seed.

Place all ingredients in a saucepan and heat only until hot. Serve at one. If you like sour cream, and ¼ cup to this recipe. Yield: 4 servings.

Re-arranging Furniture

All of us get the urge to move the furiture about to make a room "look different." This is particularly true in the spring time; it sort of goes along with spring cleaning.

As you place the furniture in your rooms, remember these basic rules:

Place large pieces of furiture parallel with the walls. Keep the large pieces out of corners. Have traffic ways in the room open. Arrange furiture for convenient use.

Both arrangement of furniture and accessories and colors contribute to the impression a room gives to the faulty members and guests.

A good idea is for the family to consider together the activities carried on in the room and how furniture cold most conveniently be arranged. Don't forget a comfortable, well-lighted, convenient reading center in the living room

Gloves For Your Outfit

You will want to chose with care the gloves you wear to complete your spring outfit. For example, if your dress or suit is dark, your hat bright colored, your shoes and bag dark, don't

Camp Tiak Reservation Deadline Near

With some 655 Boy Scouts and Explorers already registered for a week or more at Camp Tiak, leaders are urged throughout the Pine Burr Area Council to take advantage of the lower reservation fee by May 1. On that date, according to Harold Ryker of Biloxi, Camping and Activities Chairman, the reservation fee will advance from $2.00 to $3.00. Camp fees will remain the same.

Camp Tiak was built in record time in the spring of 1955, and had 1,056 boy-weeks of camping the first season. "We expect at least 1,000 reservations by May 1, and hope to have a total of from 1,200 to 1,500 boy-weeks for the camp's second season," said Mr. Ryker.

Six periods have been scheduled, beginning June 6 and ending July 21. Groups check in on Sunday afteroon, and leave the camp the following Saturday afternoon. "If reservations make additional periods necessary, will bethey will be added," said the chairman. A separate Troop site will be reserved for each group with eight or more boys attending with their leader.

Several Program Additions

The addition of a large collection of birds of the south Mississippi area has made possible increased emphasis on the bird study and nature merit badges. The display of birds, from the Harrison Experimental station at Gulfport, was given to theh camp last fall by Dr. B. W. Henry at the suggestion of F. J. Bartlett. Glass covered trays will be used to protect the specimens when available for study.

A small collection of animals and reptiles, will also be used to stimulate the reptile study and other merit badges.

The lake at Camp Tiak was stocked 15,000 blue gill brim from the Lyman Fish Hatchery in September, 1955. Early in April 1,500 large mouthed black bass were added, through the efforts of W. B. Gary, Forrest County conservationist The brim will be biting some this summer, and by 1957 boys should be able to earn the fishing merit badge while at camp

Other program features include aquatics, marksmanship, printing, archery and Scoutcraft.

More than 41% of theh deaths andmore than 35% of the injuries due to motor vehicle accidents last year occured on Saturdays and Sundays.

Gloves For Your Outfit

You will want to chose with care the gloves you wear to complete your spring outfit. For example, if your dress or suit is dark, your hat bright colored, your shoes and bag dark, don't match your gloves to the hat. It is better to make them harmonize with the dress and other accessorise, as warm beige with red or timid gray with blue.

Do not match gloves with bright colored shoes or bag. You never want more than two bright colored accessories with one outfit.

If your suit or dress is bright colored, gloves and other accessories should be stable hues, as navy, black and neutrals.

Announcing the official opening of

Magnolia Memorial Gardens

HATTIESBURG'S NEW AND MODERN PERPETUAL CARE CEMETERY

Luther B. Dixon takes great pride in announcing to the people of Hattiesburg and vicinity the official opening of beautiful Magnolia Memorial Gardens, Hattiesburg's newest and modern perpetual care cemetery, a 60-acre estate with beautiful white swan lake, located 2 miles west of the Miss. Southern College on Highway 98 or old 24. This land is to be divided up into a series of religious gardens depiciting the life and teachings of Christ, and when completed will tell the story of Christ's life from birth to resurrection. We have one of the Gardens now ready for inspection and ready for service to the public. The Garden now ready features a beautiful boulevard and circle drive, which is the Christus Garden. There will be a Statue of Christ very soon at the end of the circle with outstretched arms welcoming his loved ones back into his Kingdom. This Garden beautifully landscaped with Camellias, azaleas, Southern magnolia and lots of other shrubbery and annual flowers to complete our Architect's design.

This chosen shrubbery was furnished by local Hattiesburg nurserys, who too, are some of our first members to build their burial estates in the Gardens. Magnolia State Nursery, Korner Nursery and other Hattiesburg Firms and people who have assisted us greatly in bringing this development to you and who have recently become members and bought their estate with us. To Tom Bullock of Route 4, who has spent many hours with me has been a true friend all the way, I wish to say thanks once again. Mr. K. E. Byrd of The Amercan Realty Co., through whom the land was purchased, spent many hours searching for the right land for this development. To Mr. J. Frank Brown of the First Federal Savings and Loan who is a trustee for the Perpetual Care Fund of Magnolia Gardens, Economy Supply, Standard Supply, Ford Tractor Company, Mr. R. E. Robbins, the Amco Steel Co.; Jesse Shanks, Attorney; Ed Montague, Civil engineer, and to the over fifty other members who have bought their estate in Magnolia Memorial Gardens—from one Mississippian to another, I wish to thank you all.

Estates can be furnished now for your entire family under our educational advertising program, anyway you want them, cash or easy payment plan to fit anyone's budget through us. My sincere belief is that this is something that the man and wife should decide together before the need occurs and not when one is left alone.

Anyone interested in these estates may have a well trained Counselor call on them and explain this program to them by calling JU 2-1273.
